Donnerstag: 02.11.2017   16:00 s.t.

Zentrum für Bioinformatik, Bundesstraße 43, Raum 16

Using Machine Learning to predict and understand human disease

With the advent of 'big' and 'quantitative' biomedical across domains it might be possible to predict and understand disease using Machine Learning approaches. I will present recent data showing that we are starting to predict basic biological processes and disease within the limits of measurement error.

Prof. Dr. Stefan Bonn
University Clinic Hamburg-Eppendorf
Center for Molecular Neurobiology
Hamburg

Everyone is welcome!