

Universität Hamburg

DER FORSCHUNG | DER LEHRE | DER BILDUNG

Digital Language Variation in Context

FRIDAY, 8 OCTOBER 2021

DiLCo Ethics Lectures

DiLCo, a new international research network on ‘Digital language variation in context’, presents three online lectures on ethics in digital ethnography and natural language processing.

14.00—16.00 CET (08-10.00 ET, 13-15.00 GMT, 20-22.00 HKT)

Ethics as a social process – metascientific reflexivity in multi-sited online and offline ethnographic research

Andreas Candefors Stæhr (University of Copenhagen)

Ethics in natural language processing

Karën Fort (Sorbonne Université)

19.00—20.00 CET (13-14.00 ET, 18-19.00 GMT, 01-02.00 HKT)

Ethics as method: Reviewing dilemmas and choices in an age of data and automated decision making

Annette Markham (RMIT University & Aarhus University)

Visit the DiLCo website for abstracts and bios.

The lectures can be attended free of charge.

Registration is mandatory.

Click here to register

DiLCo (‘Digital language variation in context’) is a 3-year international research network initiated in 2021 by Jannis Androutsopoulos and Heike Zinsmeister at Universität Hamburg. The network brings together researchers from universities in Europe and USA with expertise in quantitative (computational) and qualitative (interactional, pragmatic, ethnographic) approaches to digital language and linguistics. It aims to provide a platform for new, interdisciplinary ideas in digital language and communication research, and for early-career capacity building.

Project website: www.dilco.uni-hamburg.de

DiLCo is funded by the Federal Ministry of Education and Research (BMBF) and the Free and Hanseatic City of Hamburg under the Excellence Strategy of the Federal Government and the Länder.

FAKULTÄT
FÜR GEISTESWISSENSCHAFTEN

FACHBEREICH SPRACHE LITERATUR MEDIEN I

